

I support satalite radio and do not feel that they should be limited in their ability to provide service such as traffic and weather to their customers. Commercial broadcast radio is no longer the public service that it once was since more and more it is being devoured by large corporations and the ability to serve the individual community is limited.

With satalite radio we choose to pay a fee, as with cable television and do not feel that this service should be restricted from providing its customers with public service informatioin. Since the coverage is nationwide they are much more consistent in their service to those who are traveling.

Please do not, once again, yield to the pressure of big corporations who do not have the interst of individual Americans in mind. I urge you to resist effort to remove services such as traffic and weather from satalite radio listeners.
